Shifts in the Welfare Mix

Their Impact on Work,
Social Services and Welfare Policies

European Centre for Social Welfare Policy and Research

Campus / Westview

Shifts in the welfare mix today often mean that the state, confronted with a difficult modernization of the economy, places more burdens on the shoulders of people and households. But are there not also chances to turn these shifts into a kind of restructuring of the relationship between state, economy and civil society which would ease the difficult transition from welfare state to welfare society?

Adalbert Evers is Senior Research Fellow at the European Centre for Social Welfare Policy and Research, Vienna, and Lecturer at the University of Frankfurt am Main. His teaching, research and publications concentrate on innovations in the field of social services and on the way they are shaped by new social movements, projects and strategies.

Helmut Wintersberger is Deputy Director of the European Centre and Lecturer at the University of Vienna. His work is focused on comparative policies, medical sociology and social policy. His publications concentrate on automation, work and health as well as on the welfare state.
