

Curriculum vitae

Ágnes Darvas

Ágnes Darvas has been an senior lecturer at the Department of Social Work and Social Policy of Eötvös Lorand University since 1997. Previously she earned a degree as a special teacher of emotionally disturbed children and as a sociologist. She completed her Ph.D degree in social policy. Her main fields of interest are child poverty, family support system and policies to support the well-being of children. Since the end of 2005 she is taking part in the process of preparation and implementation of Hungarian national programme to combat child poverty.

Selected publications:

Darvas, A: Social Policy in the Transition Period: Children's Share of the Cake (1999): UNCRD Research Report Series (26).

Ferge, Zs. – Tausz, K. – Darvas, A. (2002): Combating poverty and social exclusion. (2002) (1) Case study – Hungary. Budapest: ILO, Central-Eastern-European Office.

Darvas, A - Hegyesi, G.: Hungary. (2003) In: Professional Ideologies and Preferences in Social Work. A Global Study (edited by I. Weiss, J. Gal, J. Dixon) Praeger Publisher, 2003. 125-141

Darvas, A – Tausz, K (2002): The poverty of children. Review of Sociology Vol. 8, 2. 97-122.

Darvas, A – Tausz, K (2003): Child poverty and social exclusion in Hungary. (European Commission, DG Employment and Social Affairs)

Darvas A. - Mózer P (2004).: Kit támogassunk? (Family benefit system in Hungary) Esély, 2004. 6.

Darvas A. - Tausz K (2005).: A gyermekkori kirekesztettség fogalma, mérésének lehetőségei – tendenciák az EU-ban, tapasztalatok egy hazai kutatás nyomán. (Measuring of exclusion of children, tendencies in EU, experiences in Hungary) (2005) EU tanulmányok III. Nemzeti Fejlesztési Hivatal 2005.